

2000's

- Mummy (2000)

Directed by: Arun S Gongade

The excesses of the electronic media can very easily corrupt your child. The parents have to perform the rescue act by infusing the child's heart with love and care. This is the only way to prevent the inevitable.

- The Story of Wood Cutter (2004)

Directed by: Arun S Gongade

This is a story of a Woodcutter. One day while cutting a tree he fell from its branch. He looks up and sees a bird singing on the upper branches of the tree. He realizes that cutting the trees and destroying the environment is like destroying himself.

- Bhartiya Vidya Mandir (2009)

Directed by: Arun S Gongade

Indian Society is multi-cultural one with different castes religions and languages. This film tells us that we are all students of one school, Bhartiya Vidya Mandir, where the supreme lesson is taught - be achievers, but be Indian first. This mandir is nothing but a metaphor, standing for the Glory we Indians bring to our country, shunning all glory we Indians bring to our country, shunning all caste-cultural differences.
